3D Piece

The 3D pieces developed for the final project of Drawing: Fashion and Form consisted of two long sleeve button up shirts that had prints “embroidered” in only one side of it.

These same prints can be found on the line up presented during the final presentation or on the pdf of the collection’s progress.

The making of the pieces involved several steps and different mediums. It went from a simple drawing that was turned into a print, which later on was laser cut onto wood, spray painted and then glued on top of the shirts.
