

Revised Research Topic
Jessica Chan
February 27, 2018

I am studying 21st century hostile urban architectural design in New York City because I want to find out the affects these specific design decisions have on different groups in society including the disabled, homeless, and elderly, because I want to bring awareness of hostile architecture and help my readers understand the reasons given for these design choices and how it impacts individual rights.