

An ordinary day

Suji Kang

She wakes up early in the morning, to goes to the school gym for the exercise. She's so tired and lazy to make a bed. When she is back to her room, she took a shower and having breakfast to start a day. Breakfast is usually sandwiches and coffee from the café near to the school. She usually read an article during the breakfast, such as newspaper or a book. She doesn't used to read a newspaper, but her parents encourage her to read various kinds of article. Therefore, she started to read newspaper; even she's not interested in. She brought some coffee to the class even she already had in the morning. After all the class is over, she took a rest at her room, which is school dormitory with online shopping and take a walk with her friend. She cleaned kitchen and bathroom before leave, as it's her duty for this week. She went to the restaurant with her roommate to get some dinner. After dinner, she cut some wood to makes a 3D model for the assignment due tomorrow. Slight scent of burnt wood is covering the woodshop. She wishes to be a successful product designer, which was her dream since she was very young. Even every daily work is done, she couldn't sleep because of caffeine that she took during the day. Mostly, she couldn't sleep until 4 in the morning or more than that while everyone else is falls asleep. She could feel the chilly air and siren broke the silence.
