HIGHER

Higher speed is a project we developed with the aim of crossing two main elements: busy people working and gathering family meals. It stems from the observation of people nowadays eating quickly and on the go in the middle of their day. The event took place in an elevator, as a symbol of a gathering space for people on their way to their working place.

The elevator stopped on four floors, with the doors opening to reveal bites of food reminiscent of a full meal. The elevator's path being unpredictable, we embraced the presence of non-participants in the space. Participants were also asked typical awkward questions in a family reunion style (how's your love life?) The event thus put both world in perspective, highlighting the dimensions of time and individuality.
