

All Boxed up

This container was sent to me by my mother. Its contents used to hold a small string of fairy lights which I have since hung in my room. interesting enough my mother never achully saw this container because it was delivered through amazon. Amazon delivers so many objects that its no suprise that they diliver lights