

Sitting down to read one of her many poetry books, she eventually looks outside and feels that a day like today shouldn't be spent indoors...