

WORK IN PROGRESS

During the thought process, I tried to think of the best way to convey my ideas or what I wanted to emphasize in this project through drawings, sketches and collages. However it came to me in the end to merge them all together which compliments the aspect of intimacy in detail that I have kept as a personal trait a long inside my own identity.

The cut out photographs(which were later scanned) I took of my hoodie and I compliments the retrospective on how I as a kid playing sports would cut out different or rip out different photos of tennis magazines and paste them as a collage of my favorite tennis players. It plays a sentimental roll in this project, as for the sketches and drawings of details conveys towards who I am today, and my style of drawing as an artist.
