

On this Wednesday, I went to the Dream House with classmates. It is a very small museum and just having to rooms in a same floor. The museum will ask for a 12 to 16 donation, but you can choose to how much you want to pay or whether pay nothing, because I don't have that much cashes so I only gave them 2 dollars. Everyone's shoes should be off and very clean no smells, no lights. when I saw this dynamic image, it reminds me of old computer's screen protection photo. The light comes from center, and move to two sides. The movement of this also looks like a butterfly flying through various lowers. Also, the colorfulness of it looks like a small part of kaleidoscope. Makes me dreaming back to my childhood, playing around in gardens, chasing the butterflies, lying on the grass, smelling the fresh air, and thinking nothing. Even when I first enter this room, I can feel the relax atmosphere fall upon here. It is shoes off room, which means it is very clean, also it looks very neat. There are pillows on the ground, and I heard one rhythm repeat over and over again, gives me kind of hypnotizing feel. I think it is very good place for people like us to get inspirations, or people that over stressed to have a time off just relax and do nothing. Additionally, I don't see the point of this house. It's a very bad experiences for me. Everybody in there no matter is my classmate or people from other side to visiting this small museum. It is a very weird place, but some people are enjoying in it. However, our teacher only ask us to stay there for 20mins as minimum, and you can leave after 20 mins. Pretty much all my classmate leaved at the same time which is about 20mins. But outside visitor still there and still enjoy in it. At the second room has two moving circles on the wall that hit in light. It is moving round and round. The circles are the same size and its purple. The second room is way more smaller than the first room. I think just for people who don't want to listen that music anymore so people can have a break at there in order to refresh or clean whether their head or ears. However usually people won't stay at that room. Because it won't help you to get the inspiration or any ideas that you need. In the second room it has a little restroom for people to use it. Which I think is a very good service.

